

I've never really thought of myself as an "interesting" person, I guess. I got hired by Victory for my video editing, and later by Kit to moderate this zine. Besides that, nothing really sticks out when it comes to me.
I mean, well okay. I got a story if that counts. You wanna know how I got my horns?So, I also like to go urban exploring, right? There was an abandoned site near my apartment that had just been tempting me to enter for a while. I decided "y'know what? Why not", and it seemed to be an abandoned… office space? Resort?? And recording studio??? It was something straight out of an 80s fever dream.

It got even weirder when I found these tunnels in the basement, long, abandoned corridors that spanned MILES, and then after walking an entire city's length I found an elevator - which required facial recognition and registered me as "ghostie" for some reason - it took me up to Borealis Stadium I guess?? And then once the doors opened, the most earth-shattering bass rattled the elevator shaft like a cage. I could feel every cell in my body vibrate out of existence before the air started to feel very, very fast.
And then it clicked in my dumb brain: wait, was that Victory playing? An image of Spikey performing flashed in my mind before everything went black.When I came to, I was for some reason on top of the elevator which had been pulverized from the fall. I realized I Was Boned if I stayed any longer and promptly got the hell out. Doc said I wasn't hurt, barely scratched if anything, and I got sick new horns and ghost powers out of it. So… a win is a win, I guess.

HALLOWEEN EDITION

Happy Halloween readers! Fittingly, we've been having some eerie happenings at Zinecord HQ lately. My team purchased a copy of the coveted '12122017', despite my refusal to buy such a thing. They assured me that they got it for a bargain due to a 'slight catch'. The catch? It's haunted. Now the lights keep flickering, air's freezing, and the band plushies move when no-one's looking. Guess I better dip into the Zine 02 budget for an exorcist.

THE BAND DRESSES UP FOR AUSTIN SHOW !!!!

Earlier This Week...

After a smashing success with Victory bringing their show down to San Diego, the band had already departed and were making their way towards their next show in LA.

Back on the bus, Hugo was working on various edits, as he heard that Victory was set to perform on Halloween. Red was surveying Hugo's work. Hugo gestured for Spikey to come. Nothing. They all turned to each other and frantically searched around for their guitarist. Juno used her magic to make the bus stop, Red was overturning pillows, while Hugo looked towards the back and bumped into the Spikey mannequin. The band met up, horrified. Spikey was missing. Without a single thought, Red put a pillowcase over the driver's head, and Juno seized the wheel.

She turned the bus back around and then floored it. A very soggy Spikey was waiting as the staff flagged them to pick him up. He wanted to scream at the band, but now wasn't the time.

"How did you guys forget me again?"

"We somehow remembered to take your mannequin on the bus, but not you."

"…WHAT?"

With the Austin Halloween show being announced, and our constant need for more information about the band ever present, we wanted to do something a bit different for this newspaper. This spooky season, we asked the Zinecord community some questions about how our favorite band celebrates Halloween!
